Sewer Rates Averaging

The City of Buda conducts its annual sewer rates averaging during November through February. The months used for averaging are the lowest water consumption months of the year. The three lowest months are averaged to get the average consumption amounts that customers are charged for the following 12 months.

If you have any water leaks, like leaky faucets or running toilets, this is the time to make repairs. Making those repairs will help you avoid having high usage during the averaging period. It will help keep sewer costs down for the following year.
